

Cherwell College Oxford

Aims & Philosophy - Mission Statement

Cherwell College Oxford specialises in helping 12-18 year old young adults achieve their highest qualifications in traditional subjects through comprehensive and bespoke academic programmes that enable entry to the Russell Group Universities and the leading universities of the world.

The College helps students to understand their options, decide on their direction and provide support to achieve their goals.

Young adults need to be supported as they study, to understand the balance between the demands of study and the practicalities of everyday life.

Students are supported through our endeavour to help them develop as an independent young adult who will be fully prepared for undergraduate studies and to gain a foretaste of what a university will expect.

We focus on a student as an individual: we listen to students; learn about their interests, ambitions; and concerns.

We then design a course of study and lesson plans that best reflect all these aspects.

If a student has a clear goal we will ensure that they are working steadily towards this objective. If their goal remains unclear, we will ensure that they include subjects that will keep their options open for university and for a future career.

Our aim is to send students on to a leading university and onward to a career where they will be able to work independently for the benefit of themselves and those around them.
